Overview

I am a hardworking professional seeking to apply my management and problem-solving skills to dynamic and engaging environments. During my previous employment, I learned the necessary skills to perform in labor-intensive and chaotic environments. I excelled at learning processes quickly in order to perform as effectively in my position as possible under minimal supervision. In these positions I utilized and improved upon my capacity to work with a team, as an individual, with clients and customers, and with multiple independent contracted teams.
